Description of the Course:

This course will develop an understanding of the role of health and physical education (HPE) in promoting physical, mental, emotional and social health for young people within the school setting. The course provides the opportunity for students to explore and navigate recent developments and social issues in primary HPE. Students will explore the importance of understanding the different backgrounds that contextualize HPE and how to make curricular and pedagogical choices to address all of the children's learning strengths and needs in a class. The learning activities will enable students to master basic knowledge, concepts and skills to teach HPE in schools including effective planning and reflective practice. The course also emphasizes developing students understanding and application of curriculum, pedagogy and assessment models and practices.
