Description of the Course:
This course introduces three major early world/Asian civilizations including Tigris-Euphrates River Valley civilisation, Indus Valley civilisation and Yellow River/Chinese civilisation. The course focuses on the major contributions of Asian civilizations to science, technology and medicine. It also investigates their spiritual and cultural development. The course will further analyse the contemporary history of China based on the knowledge of early Chinese civilisation and the dominance of Confucianism, Daoism and Buddhism. It investigates historical forces, events and significant people who contributed to the globalisation and modernisation of China. It explores the pathways of Chinas development from educational, industrial, technological, agricultural, defence and sports perspectives. The changing role of China on the world stage is discussed. It provides students with knowledge and understanding of what has made China an emerging world superpower. It will help students make sense of some of Chinas current behaviours on the world stage.

Grade Scheme: Graded (HD, D, C, etc.)

Supplementary Assessment: Yes
Where supplementary assessment is available a student must have failed overall in the course but gained a final mark of 45 per cent or above and submitted all major assessment tasks.
