Description of the Course:
This course builds on the foundation of practice developed in Foundations Studio 1 and Foundations Studio 2. The human design as the central organizing principle is key to this exploration. Students continue to explore the notion of psychophysical integration in speaking and singing, through a series of exercises and projects designed to liberate the performer from the restrictive habits and tensions that prevent freedom of expression. Students will discover how to: work from a place of engaged neutrality; build and refine skills in and awareness of physical and vocal freedom; develop a theoretical and practical grasp of vocal anatomy; play creatively and freely within vocal ensembles; perform a variety of sung and spoken texts.

Grade Scheme: Graded (HD, D, C, etc.)
Supplementary Assessment: Yes

Where supplementary assessment is available a student must have failed overall in the course but gained a final mark of 45 per cent or above and submitted all major assessment tasks.
